Dunmorean of the Month: Brian Mills

Lifelong resident operates two Dunmore landmarks

By Steve Svetovich

Brian Mills is a proud lifelong Dunmore resident. And he is even prouder to own and operate two of Dunmore's oldest landmarks.

He is owner and operator of the Chestnut Street Tavern, 501 Chestnut St., Dunmore, and Brian's Auto Body and General Repair Shop, LLC, 333 Chestnut St., Dunmore.

Both locations have housed Dunmore businesses for the past century. Mills, 52, has operated the Chestnut Street Tavern for the past 11 years. He met his wife, the former Lora Viola, a 1982 Dunmore graduate, there. She was a waitress at the time for Lombardo's, the former name of the corner bar from 1978 to 2009.

"The previous owner was selling and we decided to buy it and turn the business around," he said. "We also got married."

Prior to Lombardo's, the corner bar at the landmark was Ianelli's Bar, which opened in the early 1930's after the owners came to Dunmore from Italy, Mills said. "There was a separate entrance for men and women back then. I know they used to have pasta dinners every Sunday."

Mills calls the Chestnut Street Tavern one of the last corner bars around. He serves wine, bottled beer, eight different draft beers and IPAs. The bar is open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. six days a week and Sunday's from 2 p.m. to 2 a.m. Lunch is served 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily.

Steak and cheese, hamburgers, wings, pizza, meatball and all kinds of hoagies are among the specialties. The sauces are homemade. There is karaoke on Tuesday night and a D.J. on Friday and Saturday night. "It is a happening place," Brian says.

Mills has been in the auto repair business for 34 years. He has operated at the Chestnut Street location for the past seven years.

The operation was previously Morell's Auto and Body Shop, operated by the late Frank Morell for over 50 years. Morell was a former Dunmore Math and English teacher. Prior to that, the landmark was used as both a butcher shop and funeral home. It was originally a horse and buggy shop going back over 100 years.

Mills has one daughter, Brittany Mills Boyd, 28, Scranton. He has a granddaughter, Luna Boyd, 6.

"I am very proud to own these two businesses which are both on Chestnut Street," he said. "It is remarkable that these landmarks have housed businesses for over 100 years. Since I have lived in Dunmore my entire life, I enjoy serving this community," Brian says.

QBALL was the free entertainment featured on July 25 at the Bucktown Musicfest at Dunmore Corners, playing music from Tom Petty, David Bowie, The Stones, The Beatles, The Doors, Pink Floyd and more. The musicfest ran on Sundays throughout July and on Aug. 1 and was made possible through various business sponsors and the Borough of Dunmore. Chairmen were Thomas Hallinan, Brian McGurl and Patrick "Nibs" Loughney.

The Scranton Chapter of UNICO installed a new president, officers and members of the board in its first face-to-face gathering since the onset of Covid 19. The new president is Ann Genett, third from right, a supervisor of special education with the Scranton School District. Dr. Frank DeFrank, third from left, National President of UNICO, administered the oath of office. Ann Genett is the fifth woman president of the chapter and the second of two back to back women presidents. Proudly standing with Ann are her family, from left, sister-in-law Kathy, brother Marty, Dr. DeFrank, President Genett, nieces Anna and Casey Genett.

Doin' Dunmore

With Steve Svetovich

Dunmore native Maria Montaro, Ph.D., is more than making her mark in Pittsburgh.

Daughter of Tony and Diana Montaro, she was recently named 30 under 30 Honoree by the Pittsburgh Business Times.

The award goes to a business professional residing in Pittsburgh who has completed exceptional work and made a difference in the community.

"I am super thankful that the volunteer work I do is recognized," she said.

The 2011 Dunmore graduate has done a lot of volunteer work for the Greater Pittsburgh Community Food Bank. Much of the work was completed during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Montano, 28, is considered a certified nonprofit professional with the American Management Institute.

She received extensive education in nonprofit management fields, most recently earning her Ph.D in Community Engagement from Point Park University in Pittsburgh.

Her research showed Allegheny County's nonprofit sector is at risk due to the upcoming baby boomer retirement gap and effects from the COVID-19 virus. She helps nonprofits prepare for the future through implementation of recruitment, retention and succession planning strategies.

"It is my goal to work to sustain and develop the nonprofit sector to withstand baby boomer retirement in order to reduce the occurrences of hiring gaps within the sector and maintain a level of competitiveness with the for-profit and government sectors," she said.

Montaro's recognition as one of Pittsburgh's "30 under 30" for 2021 is an award honoring leaders in Pittsburgh's business and nonprofit communities who are under 30.

Winners are selected for their successful efforts to grow a business or nonprofit and for their contributions to the community and civic organizations.

After graduating from Dunmore High School, Montaro received a bachelor of science degree in Social Work and NonProfit Management from Slippery Rock University.

She accomplished this while serving full term with AmeriCorps where she interned and volunteered at various nonprofit organizations, including a school in Cape Town, South Africa. She also worked full time at a residential treatment facility for at-risk youth.

Montaro went on to receive an master of social work degree from the University of Pittsburgh's Community Organization and Social Action program.

She then went on to receive an MBA from Fitchburg State University where she focused on human resource management. She also became a Certified Nonprofit Professional with the American Management Institute before receiving her doctorate.

As an accomplished consultant in the nonprofit sector, she specializes in creating effective and meaningful succession plans for small to mid range nonprofit organizations. This includes recruitment, retention and emergency planning to help nonprofits succeed.

Montaro is very passionate about social justice issues. If your nonprofit's mission is actively targeting social justice issues such as systematic racism or the eradication of police brutality, the Dunmore native will consult for your organization for free.

Montaro was a four year member of the track and field team at Dunmore where she was also a basketball cheerleader and member of the National Honor Society.

Montaro, a thoughtful and giving young woman, teaches in the community engagement department at Point Park University. She helps transition freshmen students to college life.

Maria Montaro

"I believe very strongly in education and doing work for issues you believe in," she said.

The Dunmore native has resided in Pittsburgh for the past 10 years.

Dunmorean writer to be inducted into Sports Hall of Fame

Dunmorean sports editor Steve Svetovich is being inducted this fall into the Northeast Chapter of the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame. The longtime Dunmorean writer received his induction letter last month. One member of the media is selected each year.

Bob Walsh, Dunmore, is president of the Northeast Chapter of the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame. There are 32 chapters throughout the state.

The induction ceremony will be held Sunday, Oct. 24, at Fiorelli's, Peckville. Cocktail hour for family and friends will be from 5 to 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 6 p.m.

"I am thankful to the committee members for this honor," Svetovich said.

"Writing and sports have always been my passions in life. I thank my publisher John Hart at The Dunmorean for allowing me to cover Dunmore for the past 31 years. I have always loved Dunmore.

"I thank my late mom and dad for always being supportive of my passion. My mom gave me my initial push and my dad continues to read all my stories."

Svetovich, a resident of Dunmore, will go in with eight other members. The late Bill Terlecky will receive the service award, with his son representing him.

Born and raised in the Green Ridge section of Scranton, Svetovich is a graduate of the Green Ridge Little and Teener Leagues. He received the Butch Miele Memorial Award upon his graduation from the Teener League. He is a graduate of Saint Paul's Green Ridge Basketball League.

Son of Stan and the late Ellen Svetovich, he is a graduate of Scranton Preparatory School and the University of Scranton where he received a bachelor of science degree cum laude in social sciences with a minor in communications. He later went on to receive a bachelor of science degree in occupational therapy from Misericordia University.

During his teen years, Svetovich worked as an official scorer and team statistician for the Scranton Red Sox of the Atlantic Collegiate Baseball League (ACBL). He worked under coaches Gary Ruby, Jerry Valonis and the late Bill Howerton.

He served as a coach in the Green Ridge Teener League for one year and was an official scorer for the Scranton Tavern League during his teen years. He also delivered the Scrantonian Tribune for 10 years.

Svetovich started covering sports at age 20 as a stringer for The Scranton Times, working under the direction of late sports editor John McCormick, past president of the Northeast Chapter of the PA Sports Hall of Fame. It was McCormick who hooked Svetovich up with the Scranton Red Sox.

The longtime scribe also covered all high school sports for The Pennsylvania Athlete newspaper from 1982 through 1996.

Svetovich did free lance sports work for The Dallas Post, Abington Journal, The Wayne Independent and The Times Leader.

In 1986, Svetovich interviewed Pete Gray, the only one-armed position player in Major League Baseball history. The recorded and published interview earned Svetovich an award from the United Press for best sports story in a small market in Pennsylvania or New Jersey in 1986.

The recorded interview and published story are both in the library of the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York, where Svetovich received a lifetime pass. The story was also published in the Hazleton Standard Speaker and The Baseball Bulletin, a national monthly publication. The recorded interview was featured on WARM Radio.

Gray was interviewed by Svetovich on the back steps of his Nanticoke home. Svetovich kept a close friendship with Gray until his passing over a decade later. He also assisted "This Week in Baseball" in doing a segment on Gray.

Svetovich also did a recorded interview with the late Jim Crowley, one of the famed Four Horsemen of Notre Dame.

Svetovich worked in 1986 as a sports editor for The Potter Enterprise in Coudersport. He worked as a reporter for The News Eagle in Hawley and contributed a sports feature story every month to The Baseball Bulletin, a national monthly baseball publication, until that newspaper folded.

He then went on to write for The Scrantonian Tribune where he toiled from late 1986 until the newspaper's eventual demise in 1989. He served as a general assignment reporter and occasionally assisted sports editors Jack Seitzinger and Guy Valvano. He later became the Dunmore and

Svetovich in Hall of Fame

Clarks Summit correspondents.

He then went on to work for The Sunday Sun where he served as sports editor and Dunmore correspondent.

Svetovich quickly hooked up with The Dunmorean in 1990 working under owner/publisher John Hart for the past 31 years.

Svetovich, currently sports editor for The Dunmorean, writes a human interest column and a sports column.

Dishin' the Dirt.

He has also written for other newspapers owned and operated by John Hart over the years. Those publications include The Mid Valley News, The Scranton Weekly, and The Paper as well as several other newspapers.

Svetovich credits his editors at the defunct Scrantonian Tribune for helping to develop his journalistic style. He particularly credits the late Doug Miele, the late Ray Flanagan, Joe Pesavento, Lew Marcus and Valvano.

He also credits the late McCormick and late columnist Joe Flannery of The Scranton Times for helping to develop his news writing skills.

He credits Sandra Buzas, his eighth grade teacher at North Scranton Junior High School, and late novelist Gilbert Sorrentino, a professor he had at the University of Scranton, for helping him to develop his writing style.

He is thankful to John and Maureen Hart, the owners and publishers of The Dunmorean, for allowing him free rein with his stories and for their friendship and support during the past 31 years.

Svetovich coached baseball in both Green Ridge and West Scranton for 15 years at every single level from t-ball to the college level. He also coached biddy basketball.

Svetovich has also been a home health occupational therapist for the past 27 years and currently works for Comprehensive Home Health Care Services, Dupont.

Svetovich has written over 5,000 stories throughout the years. He has met and interviewed the likes of Mike Schmidt, Mike Hargrove, Claude Osteen, Bill White, Gaylord Perry, Luis Tiant, Bill Giles, John Felske, Tom Foley, Pete Gray, Jim

His favorite interviews are those he conducts with the students of Dunmore and Holy Cross High Schools. He helps choose an Athlete of the Month as well as a Dunmorean of the Month for each issue for The Dunmorean. He also conducts the interviews and writes those stories.

He remembers the words of legendary Hall of Fame baseball writer Peter Gammons who he met at the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY. He introduced himself to Gammons as a small town writer.

Gammons responded, "There is a little small town in all of us big time writers, but there is also a lot of big time in the small town writers."

Svetovich has a brother George and sister Denise who are always there for him.

He is most proud of his two sons, Dylan, 25, a former high school basketball player and college baseball player who has an master of science degree in health care administration from Marywood University and is a pharmaceutical sales representative, and Ryan, 22, a guitarist with The Sperazza Band and an accomplished songwriter/musician who produced his own CD under the name of Ryan Sal.

"My sons will always be my legacy in life," Svetovich said. "They mean the world to me." His sons will be his escorts at the induction ceremony.

Cookie sale hosted by tot will benefit Beads of Courage

By Maureen Hart

Pre-pandemic, four-year-old Avery Shivock was selected as our Dunmorean of the Month, prompted by her volunteer work picking up cigarette butts at Sherwood Park. Her story highlighted the idea that nobody is too young to make a difference.

But, as her maternal grandmother Tina Lavelle remarks, "Things change quickly, and last January Avery had a cancerous Wilms tumor removed at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP)."

It has been a very challenging year for the youngster. Her parents, Stephanie and Christopher Shivock, who also have a son, Mason, age 2, were setting up for Avery's fourth birthday party when they had to take her to the pediatrician.

The doctor urged them to take Avery to CHOP right away, where surgery was ordered immediately. It was three months before the little girl could finally celebrate her birthday.

She was only listed as clear last week, but the little lass has already started a brand new initiative.

At CHOP, which is a participant in the nationwide non-profit Beads for Courage program for children and teens with cancer, Avery received storytelling beads marking each milestone in her journey.

"Avery's beautiful beads, which come from around the world, were free because of her hospital's participation," explains her mother. "But not everyone is as fortunate, so individuals have to step up to sponsor pediatric patients at non-participating facilities."

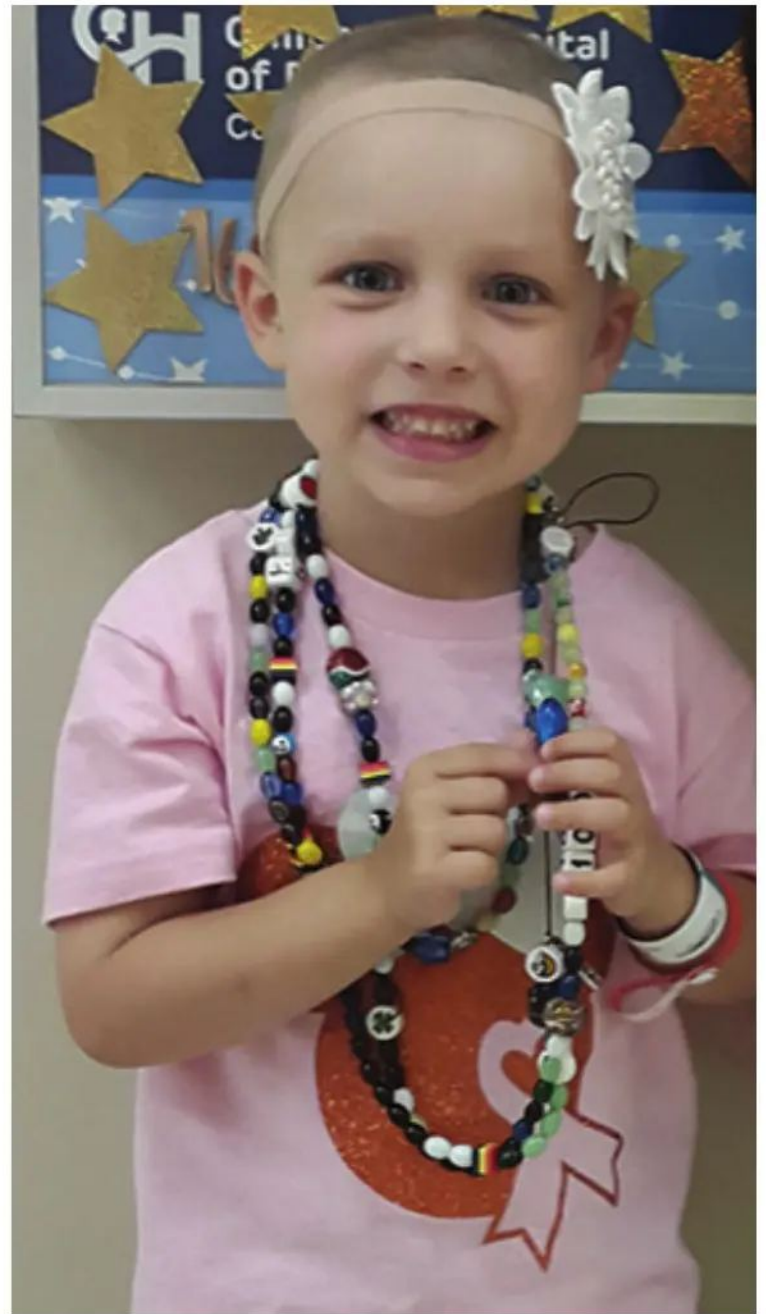

That has become Avery's latest goal. She wants to be a WINGMAN, the term for a personal sponsor who pays for a patient's beads. A WINGMAN represents someone who flies beside you and protects you or who watches your back when you think you are flying solo.

Kids coping with serious illness need a WINGMAN to help them get their Beads of Courage. This includes over 400 children on the waiting list to get Beads in the Mail – some waiting several months or more.

To earn the money to sponsor another child for a year, Avery is hosting a Cookies for Courage sale scheduled for August 21 beginning at 10 a.m. in front of her home at the corner of Jessup and Prospect Streets in Dunmore.

"There will be a big tent set up for the sale, and many local places

August Artist of the Month Dolly Michalczyk is shown working on her abstract painting entitled "Long Island."

Painting classes at the DCC have provided us with a creative outlet, contact with other like-minded folks, and friendships. For a year-and-a-half our classes had been cancelled.

At first, classmate Bev Petrini and I would paint outside, while a few of our braver classmates painted as a group. Then it just got too cold.

One would think that with all our free time we would have been painting up a storm, but in reality, most of us did nothing on our own.

Perhaps that speaks to the power of the group, or the need for our teacher's input, or in my case, my laziness to drag out all I would need to paint in my dining room. I did take a few online drawing and watercolor classes through The Greenhouse Project, as well as creative writing.

I missed my friends and colleagues and our terrific teacher Jill Swersie. May was my first time back. Returning, it was wonderful to see a few dedicated painters, a few new faces, and even greater to hear of the return of our class on June 6. In reality, my only work in oils during this quarantine was touching up a huge commissioned piece of Long Island, as seen in my photo.

It is an abstract representation of that seaside area. This is my first attempt at abstract painting, and while I enjoyed the freedom, I enjoy realism or impressionism best.

I just finished working on a painting of my grand-puppies, and I'm working on paintings of my youngest granddaughter, Kara, in a dance recital, and my oldest granddaughter, Maura, running cross country.

Being back at the Dunmore Hub has been a joy. We truly motivate each other.

Use produce from Scranton's Farmer's Market

This month we are featuring fresh from the garden, or in my case, fresh from the Farmers Market recipes.

As I walk through the Farmer's Market in Scranton, I am filled with amazement at what beautiful vegetables and fruits are available from area growers.

I not only admire their talent at growing, but I am also in awe of the labor it takes to produce what most of us take for granted.

So, whether you grow your own, or buy as I do, here are some delicious ways to prepare fresh garden vegetables:

BROILED TOMATOES PARMESAN

4 medium tomatoes
1/2 cup mayonnaise
3 Tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 tsp. prepared mustard
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Paprika

Cut tomatoes in half crosswise. Arrange, cut side up, on broiler pan. Place tomatoes 6" from source of heat and broil 5 minutes. Meanwhile, in small bowl, combine mayonnaise, cheese, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Mix well. Spread some of the mayonnaise mixture on each tomato half and sprinkle with paprika. Broil 1 minute or until golden. Serve hot.

BAKED HERB TOMATOES

2 tomatoes, halved horizontally and seeded
1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs
1/4 cup onion, finely chopped
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1/2 cup fresh basil leaves, finely chopped
1/4 tsp. dried thyme, crumbled
2 tsp. olive oil

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Sprinkle insides of tomatoes with salt and arrange, cut side down, on layers of paper towels. Let them drain for 1 hour. In bowl, stir together bread crumbs, onion, garlic, basil, thyme and salt and pepper, to taste and stir in oil. Arrange tomato halves, cut sides up, in shallow baking pan and divide bread crumb mixture among them. By the way, tomatoes may be prepared up to this point 4 hours in advance and kept at room temperature.

Bake tomatoes in upper third of oven for 10 minutes or until topping is golden. Do NOT overcook or they will lose their shape. Note: Once out of oven top them with the following mixture:

5 oz. Parmesan cheese
1/2 onion finely chopped
3/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. dry mustard

Mix above ingredients well and top baked tomatoes.

TOMATO AND BROCCOLI BAKE

2 cups fresh or frozen broccoli, chopped
4 oz. cavatelli or elbow macaroni
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
5 medium tomatoes, chopped
1 cup parsley
1 tsp. instant chicken bouillon granules
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. dried oregano
1/4 tsp. dried basil
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Thaw broccoli, if using frozen.

Sacred Heart Hospice set to host Camp Healing Hearts

Hospice of the Sacred Heart will host Camp Healing Hearts Monday through Friday Aug. 9 to 13, an experience made possible by a $20,000 Community Impact Grant given by New York Life's Northeastern Pennsylvania General Office. Camp will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

This event is a five-day camp experience to provide grief education to children ages 8 to 14 who have experienced the death of a loved one. Children work with trained bereavement counselors and members of the regional arts community to help them progress towards acceptance of the loss and use the arts as a means of self-expression.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the 2021 Camp Healing Hearts will be conducted Monday through Thursday safely via Zoom Video Conferencing.

The five-day camp is free and is made up of two back-to-back 60-minute instructional sessions each day to provide a sense of routine, consistency and ultimately closure for the entire process.

Each session utilizes a different theme explored through the arts. Bereavement counselors will be available throughout the week if any campers or family members require individual support.

Community volunteers lend their time to campers with artistic projects in painting, writing, yoga, dance, singing and cooking/baking. Friday's session will be held in person at Montage Mountain Waterpark. Social distancing will be observed.

Four year old Avery Shivock counts her challenges with Beads of Courage are donating cookies. One hundred percent of the proceeds will go toward the Wingman program," her mother says.

The initial goal was to sponsor one child for a year, but only one day after the project was announced on Facebook, the original goal was surpassed.

"We have great friends and family who are eager to help with this project," says Stephanie. "So the cookie sale should enable us to sponsor more children."

Stephanie, explains that she sees two purposes in the Beads of Courage program.

"The beads show children what they have conquered. They serve as a visual representation, which also allows the patient to tell their whole story"

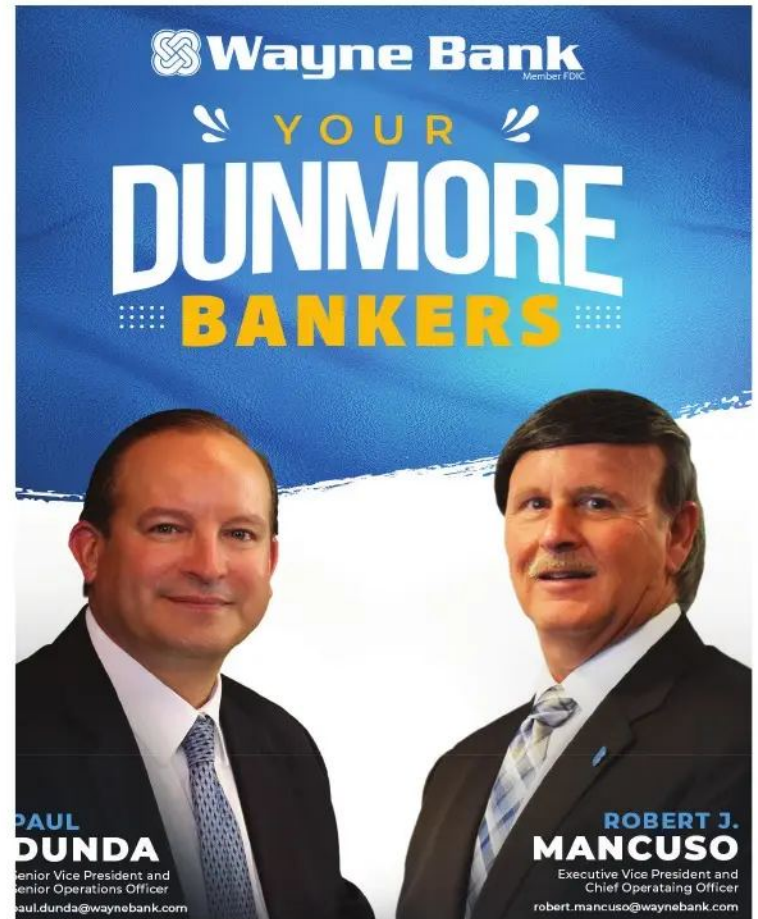

For instance, Avery has particularly struggled with Covid tests, of which she has endured five.

So certain colored beads represent that particular struggle and remind her that she conquered that fear.

Other colors represent ER visits, pokes with needles, chemo and other procedures.

Dunmore Pony League

By Steve Svetovich

Memories are often created by youngsters on a baseball diamond. Take the case of the Ackourey and Turel Pony League team in the Dunmore Little League.

This group of youngsters came into the Dunmore Pony League Tournament as underdogs this past June 27.

Coached by Mark Levandoski, the boys had a 12-5 regular season record entering the Pony League Tournament. The team defeated Eastern Residential Solutions 6-2 in the first round of the playoffs.

Then after a bye, the team faced the undefeated 3 Jacks Bar and Grill in the championship game. The 3 Jacks team was 16-0 and the favorite coming into the game.

But the Ackourey and Turel Pony League team, a group of youngsters between 6 and 8, rose to the occasion and easily beat the favored team, 16-2, to capture the Dunmore Pony League championship.

"I can't even single one player out," said coach Levandoski.

"Every player on our team had multiple hits. They kept hitting and hitting. It is just a great group of kids who all get along with each other. They are all students at Dunmore Elementary Center."

Levandowski is assisted by coaches Mike Coleman, Chris Bantell, Ashley Lancia and Luke Coleman, a former college baseball pitcher.

"It is coach-pitch, so our kids really rocked Luke Coleman, a former college baseball pitcher, who was pitching to them," said Levandoski, a 1998 Dunmore High School graduate who works for Schiff's Food Service, Taylor. "We were kidding him about that."

"The kids were all excited after we won. They were presented with medals and all had pizza at the field after winning the games. It was an all day tournament. They really enjoyed it."

Levandowski said most of the

youngsters will be playing fall baseball in Dunmore starting in early September. "They are looking forward to it already," he said.

This was Levandoski's second year coaching the team. He has been involved in the program for the past five years.

"All of the kids played great during the tournament," Levandoski said. "They were all hitting and making the plays. These kids are all friends in school. They are all good kids and love playing the game. They get along well."

Levandowski said the kids were so excited after winning the championship that they poured water all over him. "Yes, I was soaked. But it was all good. The kids were happy and having fun."

Team members include Marcus Levandoski, Michael Coleman, Jack Coleman, Kate Coleman, Connor Sciarilli, Brady McCarthy, Hunter Smolskis, Carter Bantell, George Siracuse, James Archer and Hannah Scanlon.

The graduating members are Marcus Levandoski, Connor Sciarilli, Hunter Smolskis and Michael and Jack Coleman.

"The graduating players kind of led the way for us this year," said Levandoski. "They got us going."

Levandowski said the graduating players will go on and play in the Dunmore Minor League which consists of 9-10-year-old youngsters. After Minor League, the kids progress to the Dunmore Little League.

"These kids will just keep on playing and having fun," he said.
