Dunmore Bucks looking forward to 2021 season

By Steve Svetovich

Dunmore graduated plenty of seniors from last year's football team, but head football coach Kevin McHale feels very good about this year's team.

McHale said between 35 to 40 kids are expected to be on this year's roster.

Thomas Bowen will return as the Dunmore quarterback in his sophomore season after starting as a freshman.

McHale, a 1996 Dunmore graduate, played four years of football under retired legendary Dunmore coach Jack Henzes. He was an assistant coach under Henzes for several years before becoming the head Dunmore coach when the football icon retired.

McHale is a 2000 graduate of Moravian College in Bethlehem where he received a bachelor of science degree in social sciences. He received his teaching certificate from Marywood University in 2002.

Married to the former Shelley Higgins, a Dunmore graduate, the couple has two children: Jack, 12, and Colin, 9.

McHale led Dunmore to the District 2 Class 2A championship last year when the Bucks finished 3-2 in the COVID-19 shortened football season. The Bucks lost to Bishop McDevitt in the first round of the state playoffs.

"We graduated a lot of seniors," said coach McHale. "We are very excited about having Bowen back at quarterback. He did a great job as a freshman. It's not easy to be a freshman starting quarterback."

He worked extremely hard in the off season to better himself. He worked hard in the weight room, with conditioning and by studying a lot of film.

"He is now bigger, stronger, faster, smarter."

Other key offensive players include senior linemen Austin Brislin, a three year starter; Jake Cicerini, a two way starter who is recovering from an ACL injury; Danny Schmidt, the center; Luciano Calderone, Joe Marzzacco and Blake Schultz who is injured now, sophomore wide receivers Dom DeSando, Danny Pigga and Lorenzo Mitchell and junior running backs Cal Talutto and Josh Malone.

The defense includes senior defensive backs Vinnie Bonavoglia,

Coach Kevin McHale

Liam Crowley, Cameron Reyes and Kieran Reyes, junior linebacker Patrick Pucilowski, senior linebacker Zeake Rosario and sophomore linebackers Nick Donvito and Jake Hickey.

Junior Max Hunt is expected to be the kicker. Junior Nick Pearro and sophomores Rogan Dougherty and Sean Gallagher are in competition for the punting duties.

Cicerini, who is recovering from the ACL injury, is expected to make a big impact at right offensive tackle and left defensive tackle. McHale called him a kid with great character, very coachable and an outstanding teammate. Cicerini, 6-3, 260 pounds, has battled a series of injuries to his right knee throughout his middle and high school football career, but keeps battling back.

The assistant coaches under McHale are Mike Barrett, Michael Ehnott, Michael Perry, Damon

Bowen, Michael Gardier and Colin Holmes. All of the assistant coaches with the exception of Bowen played football at Dunmore.

Michael McDonnell is the head freshman football coach.

"We are really excited about this coming season," coach McHale said. "The kids have really prepared themselves for the season. We like where we are at now. Our goal is to win every game, win the district title and then go as far as we can."

"Our schedule is tough. There are no easy games. We are ready to reach our full potential as a football team."

Doin' Dunmore

With Steve Svetovich

A new Thanksgiving Day rivalry emerged Thursday, Nov. 22, 1945, when Dunmore defeated West Scranton, 6-2.

The Dunmore win nailed down the Lackawanna Conference title for first-year head coach Tommy Silvano and the Bucks.

Dunmore finished 9-0 in the conference, but had to settle for second place in the Northern Division of the EIFC.

Larksville represented the division in the championship game after finishing with a 6-0 record. Former Sunday Scrantonian Tribune sports editor Guy Valvano, Dunmore, wrote a book, "Thanksgiving Memories," in 2009.

According to Valvano's book, there were 7,500 fans on hand

Thursday afternoon, Nov. 22, 1945, at Athletic Park.

Valvano wrote Guy Ardizoni, one of the most talented running backs in the history of Lackawanna County high school football, ran 14 yards in the mud in the closing minutes.

The score offset a 2-0 lead from a safety that had been held by West Scranton since the first quarter.

Valvano wrote Ardizoni was hobbling on a painful right knee that had been injured the previous game. The touchdown enabled the fleet-footed senior to finish the season with 114 points in 10 games, according to Valvano.

That eclipsed the record of 102 points he had set a season earlier, added Valvano.

Tech defeated Central, 6-0, on Thanksgiving morning that very same day at Athletic Park. Billy "Ging" Weiss, the smallest and lightest player on the mud-covered field, cut off tackle and scored on a 17 yard run for Central, wrote Valvano.

Five years later in 1950, wrote Valvano, Dunmore won the Lackawanna Conference championship by defeating West Scranton, 18-0, before 5,500 fans at home on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 23, to finish with a 7-2-2 record, Dunmore had been hopeful of representing the Northern Division in the EIFC championship game, wrote Valvano, but the honor - much to the chagrin of Dunmore School District officials - went to Swoyersville.

The Luzerne County school, wrote Valvano, nosed out the Bucks after being allowed to use the record of an opponent that had not played a minimum of five conference games as required by the EIFC. That opponent was Ashley, which was 0-1-1 in the conference.

The final standings showed Swoyersville as the first place team with Dunmore as the runner up.

Swoyersville's loss was to Southern Division member Coal Township, a team that was held to a 7-7 tie by Dunmore one week before the Bucks played West Scranton on Thanksgiving Day. Coal Township handed Swoyersville a 26-13 setback in the EIFC title game.

Coaches from Coal Township had looked at Dunmore as their potential opponent in the EIFC title game,

Looking back at old-time Thanksgiving rivalries wrote Valvano.

The coaches of the Southern Division champion were scouting Dunmore that Thanksgiving Day, wrote Valvano.

When some Dunmore fans at the Bucks-Invaders game on Thanksgiving, wrote Valvano, asked Coal Township head coach Walter Marshall why his staff was not scouting Swoyersville that day, his response was that he expected the Purple Demons to be playing Dunmore in the title game.

In the 1950 Thanksgiving Day game played on the snow-covered field, wrote Valvano, Dunmore's touchdowns against West Scranton were scored by Matt Soranno, on an interception return; Lou Costanzo on a one-yard run; and Pat Ferraro, on a 14-yard run.

The win gave Dunmore head football coach V. James Gatto his second Lackawanna Conference championship.

The late Chic Feldman of The Scrantonian reported Dunmore had put the finishing touches to the most grueling regular season schedule in school history.

The losses were to Lock Haven and Berwick, two quality football programs, at the outset of the season. Dunmore then went through the rest of the season without a loss.

Holy Cross Crusaders looking for wins this season

By Steve Svetovich

Holy Cross first year head football coach Joe Giorgio is looking to create a winning attitude for the Crusaders.

Giorgio, a 1979 Dunmore graduate where he played basketball and baseball, knows a lot about the Holy Cross football program already.

He was the Holy Cross freshman football coach in 2011-12. He served as an assistant football coach for the Crusaders from 2017 until he was named the new head coach this season.

Giorgio received an associate degree from Keystone Junior College and attended the University of Scranton. He is married to the former Lynn Kamora. The couple has two children: Michael, 28, of Virginia, and Nicole, 32, of Maryland.

Giorgio said Holy Cross has a good turnout for football this season and his players are enthusiastic, excited and expecting to win games.

"I really didn't expect a turnout of 28 kids when we started practice," he said. "But the kids are really into it. They are buying into the program. They are excited and looking to create a winning culture."

"We had no seniors last year, so everyone who played for us is returning. We started four freshmen last year. They are all returning. Plus we have a few new players." Holy Cross was 0-5 last year in the COVID-19 shortened season.

Giorgio is assisted at Holy Cross by Vince Coviello, Chris Coviello, Corey Coviello, Jim Talarico, Dom Possanza and Jake Gatto.

"We expect to get a few wins this year," said coach Giorgio. "We were on the field for a few games and got some experience last year. And now it's paying dividends. We are hoping to be at least a .500 team this year. We are going to win some games and be much more competitive."

Nate Copley, a senior transfer from Scranton High School, will be the starting quarterback. Sean Herbert, a senior and the quarterback last season, will be a starting wide receiver. Logan Tierney, a junior, will be the starting tailback. Tierney started four games at tailback last season.

Cabets will be the kicker. Copley will handle the punting duties.

Key defensive players will be Tierney at linebacker and Cabets at defensive end. Senior stalwart Tucker returns at tackle on the defensive line.

"Our guys are putting in the time and effort," coach Giorgio said. "The best thing is that we played five games last year and we got to practice. So the kids have some time on the playing field. Having those five games during COVID helped us a lot.

"Most of the kids last year never played football before. Now they have the experience. And it is now showing during practice."

"These kids are excited and hungry. They are all going to play and win some games. We will be highly competitive."

Coach Giorgio says, "We are all very much looking forward to the start of the season. The kids are excited and working hard in summer practices."

Danielle Decker deeply honored to chosen as Miss Buck

By Steve Svetovich

Dunmore senior Danielle Decker looks forward to taking on the role as Miss Buck this coming school year.

"I look forward to representing Dunmore High School as Miss Buck," she said.

"I will respect the honor of being Miss Buck by helping the kids in the community, my classmates, and being there for everyone in the school."

Daughter of Joseph and Evelyn Decker, Danielle, 17, has a 3.2 academic average. Her best subject is math. She hopes to study nursing at Wilkes University in the fall of 2022.

"I was honestly shocked, honored, and excited all at the same time when I heard the news about being named Miss Buck," said Danielle. "To me this is a huge honor to represent my class and Dunmore High School as Miss Buck. It is going to be great to be a role model for younger kids."

Danielle keeps busy with a variety of clubs at Dunmore High School. She is a member of the marching band, art club, book club, chorus, drama club, health careers club, and yearbook staff.

She has three sisters and one brother. Her three older sisters are Mary, Jessica and Amy. Her brother is Christopher.

The aspiring nurse talked about her goals as a Dunmore senior. "I want to live my senior life to the fullest and do as much as I can," she said.

"I hope to recruit more twirlers to get into the district band. I want to be kind to and enjoy my friends and family. And I want to represent and honor the title of Miss Buck and be a strong role model to the younger kids."

"I am so honored and cannot wait for this senior year."

"Dunmore High School is amazing, especially the teachers and students."

The new Miss Buck talked about her future aspirations. "I want to become a registered nurse and help people with health problems like my dad who has a heart condition, diabetes, and an amputated foot. That is my future goal. I would love to be able to help someone like my dad."

Danielle said she enjoys music and would like to see Avril Levine, an alternative rock artist, in concert.

She said her parents taught her so much. "My parents told me you cannot judge a book by its cover. Always respect people."

"They told me to always respect people's boundaries. Be kind to everyone because you don't know what they are going through."

Prep coach Terry Gallagher takes one game at a time

By Steve Svetovich

Scranton Prep head football coach Terry Gallagher does not believe in looking too far ahead.

"We take one game at a time here at Scranton Prep," he said. "The coaching staff here wants to make sure we play the best we can week by week."

And that means not looking too far past each opponent.

"We only look at the opponent we are playing that particular week," he said. "We prepare the best we can for that team. We don't set goals for down the road. Our only goal is to beat the next team."

"That is how we do things here." Scranton Prep was 4-1 in the COVID-19 shortened season in 2020. Despite the 4-1 record, the team did not make the post season.

Coach Gallagher, in his sixth season as head coach, is a 2002 graduate of Scranton Prep. He played football at LaSalle before eventually graduating from the University of Scranton with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education. He teaches at North Pocono.

Coach Gallagher said his players are looking good in summer practice sessions.

"The boys are looking pretty good," he said. "The older players have been working in this program and have the experience to lead us. Our veteran players will lead by example.

"We are trying to push all the right buttons and be more physical and improve our techniques. Hopefully, we will have a full year of games." Sean Monahan, a junior, is expected to be the team's quarterback this season.

Other key returning players include senior wide receiver-defensive back Rob Maguire, senior offensive and defensive lineman Kellen Doughton, senior tight end-linebacker Andrew Durkin of Dunmore, junior running back-defensive back London Montgomery, senior wide receiver-defensive back Robert Rossi, senior linebacker-fullback Mike Golay, senior lineman Adam Kenny, senior lineman Drew O'Malley, senior lineman Christian Kohut, junior lineman Anthony Nicotera, senior Jimmy Burke and seniors Rich Pasco and Ned Leonard.

Assistant coaches under coach Gallagher are Brian Croom, Dan McShaffery, Jason Tallo, Ryan James, Brett Stage, Anthony Rossi, Billy Pasqualichio, Keith Toolan, Ben Koshanski and A.J. McKenna. Burke, a 5-10, 285-pound defensive lineman, is one of the top returning football players in District 2.

Coach Gallagher called him one of the leading guys in the weight room and one of the strongest players on the team.

Burke started as a sophomore and played a key role in Scranton Prep reaching the District 2 title game. He had 55 tackles, including five for a loss. He also recorded two sacks.

Last season, Burke had 26 tackles and two and one-half sacks in only five games. He earned a spot on the Lackawanna Football Conference Division I-II Coaches' all-star second team.

Burke takes a lot of pride in his strength and agility training.

"We have the experience to lead this team," coach Gallagher said. "We take things week by week, one game at a time. We are looking at being prepared and winning game one right now."

Gavyn Grems hopes to lead Crusader running game

By Steve Svetovich

Gavyn Grems knows being a good teammate and working hard leads to success.

And those qualities are the reason Gavyn, 18, is expected to play a key role in the Holy Cross Crusaders running game.

Son of Shawn and Kathryn Hughes, Gavyn scored three touchdowns last season for Holy Cross in the COVID-19 shortened five game schedule.

He has been a member of the Holy Cross football team for two years.

Gavyn is also a two year member of the Holy Cross basketball team as a guard. He is a three year member of the Holy Cross track and field team as a sprinter. He is also a member of the history club.

Well-rounded, the three-sport athlete has a 3.4 academic grade point average. He is hoping to major in business at West Virginia University next year.

He talked about what it takes to be a good running back in high school football.

"You need to have good vision on the football field," he said. "That is a major thing. You need to have speed and power as a running back."

The senior stalwart said his parents taught him a lot. "My parents always look out for each other," he said. "They teach and show me you need to be there for each other. You are supposed to pick each other up. And that's how you should be with your teammates."

Gavyn said he is learning much the same from new Holy Cross head football coach, Joe Giorgio.

"Coach Giorgio always tells us to pick each other up. Be there for each other when things get rough."

The multi-talented senior talked about his future goals.

"I want to be a better person and be kind to other people. I don't ever want to fall down the wrong path." Gavyn, hard-working and humble, has a positive outlook for the Holy Cross football team this season. He is looking at the bottle as half full. "I expect us to improve," he said. "We've added some new and key players. We have a nice turnout of players this year. We expect to be good this year."

Gavyn enjoys listening to music in his spare time and would like to see Da Baby, a rap artist, in concert. The well-spoken senior said he is enjoying his experience at Holy Cross.

"I love it here," he said. "I came in here in my sophomore year as a student transfer from Dunmore. The students and teachers here took me in as their family.

"The teachers here are really amazing. They are always there for you to help out. I really do love it here. I love everything about it."

Andrew Durkin shows toughness for Scranton Prep

By Steve Svetovich

When Andrew Durkin went from Dunmore Middle School to Scranton Prep, he was not sure what to expect.

But he is going to end up as a four-year member of Scranton Prep's football and baseball teams and, in his words, a changed individual.

"Going to Scranton Prep has been a great experience for me," he said. "Through sports and school, it has changed who I am as a person for the better."

Son of Atty. Larry and Kristine Decker, Dunmore, Andrew, 17, is looking forward to his senior season as a member of the Scranton Prep football team.

He is a starting tight end and linebacker on the Scranton Prep football team. Andrew plays outfield on the baseball team and hit .394 as a junior.

He is a member of the National Honor Society and has an impressive 95 academic average at Scranton Prep. His best subject is math. His football coach at Scranton Prep is Terry Gallagher.

"I have learned a lot from Coach Gallagher," he said. "He taught me how to be physical, mean, and tough on the football field. He taught me to be disciplined and take responsibility."

Andrew talked about what it takes to be a good tight end.

"You need to be physical and be a good blocker and receiver."

The scholar-athlete also excels at linebacker. "To be a good linebacker," he said, "you also need to be physical and tough. You need to stay low. You need the low leverage."

Scranton Prep was 4-1 in the COVID-19 shortened football season in 2020. "Our goals are a district and state title this year," said the senior standout.

Well-spoken, confident and mature, Andrew said he has learned a lot from his parents. "My parents taught me to always respect others and have respect for all the players and coaches on the team."

His dad has a law office in Dunmore.

Andrew enjoys listening to music in his spare time and would like to see Drake in concert.

He plans on studying business or finance in college but is unsure where he will attend school.

"I would like to have a job in the business world," he said.

Andrew said he is looking forward to his senior year. "I love playing sports at Prep," he said.

"Along with school work, it takes up most of my time. I want to have a winning senior football season. The goal is championships.

"My personal goal is to succeed and work hard at what I do."

DHS lineman Danny Schmidt inspired by grandfather

By Steve Svetovich

When Dunmore senior lineman Danny Schmidt is on the football field, he knows someone is watching over him.

His late grandfather Michael Freund, who died at age 73 in 2018, will always have a special place in his heart.

Son of Beth and Joe Schmidt, Danny is a four-year member of the Dunmore football team.

He learned about Dunmore football at an early age from his late grandfather.

"My grandfather meant so much to me," Danny said. "He taught me about football.

"My grandfather took me to every Dunmore football game since I was six-years-old. He was always with me at the games.

"He just did so much for me. He taught me about loyalty and to work hard all the time. He always told me that if you do something, do it right, Danny recalls.

"And he always said to do unto others as you would want done unto you."

The tough, hard-working lineman said his mom has also always been a positive force in his life.

"She tells me to keep working hard and keep your head down. Be kind to others."

Danny, 17, has a 90 academic average. His best subject is history.

He enjoys listening to music in his spare time and would like to see classic rockers Motley Crue in concert.

The senior standout talked about what it takes to excel as a lineman in high school football.

"You need to be accountable to your teammates, work hard, and show up every day," he said. "You need to be a good teammate. It is all about teamwork."

Tough-minded and strong-willed, Danny said he knows Dunmore head football coach Kevin McHale well and has learned a lot about football and life from him.

"I have been working with coach McHale since I was 10-years-old," he said. "He taught me to always be accountable and work hard. He taught me about dedication. Coach McHale taught me a lot over the years."

The dedicated senior scholar-athlete said he is undecided about where he will attend college, but is leaning towards East Stroudsburg or Temple University.

He is undecided on a college major and is hoping to play college football if the opportunity presents itself.

Danny said his future goal is a simple one. "I just want to be a success in life."

The personable senior said his hobbies include fishing, working out, and hanging out with friends.

His goal this year is a big one. "Winning a football championship here at Dunmore is always the goal," he said.

Danny loves Dunmore football and is looking forward to his senior year.

"Everybody is accountable here on our team," he said.

"There is nothing better than Dunmore football. It is like one big family.

"My senior year at Dunmore is going to be great. There are a lot of friends I am close to here at Dunmore. We will have a good run. Our football team will have a great run. Dunmore High School has been terrific to me, I love Dunmore."

Danny can't wait to get out on the gridiron for his senior year.

His late grandfather will be looking down and beaming with pride.

Holy Cross senior Matt Tucker shows determination

By Steve Svetovich

Holy Cross Crusaders senior left tackle-guard Matt Tucker is determined to help his teammates be successful on the gridiron this season.

Son of Craig and Margaret Tucker, Matt is a four-year member of the Holy Cross football team.

An honor student, his best academic subject is math. He is also a member of the chess club at Holy Cross.

The senior lineman said his parents taught him a lot about determination. "They taught me to stick things out and keep trying no matter what. Even when things get hard, keep trying and stay determined."

He said the team is already learning a lot from new Holy Cross head football coach Joe Giorgio. "He tells us to keep trying to get better. He tells us to push ourselves to improve and never stop."

The senior standout talked about what it takes to be a good lineman.

"You need a lot of determination," he said. "You need to learn from your mistakes and keep going."

The strong-willed senior said this Holy Cross team is looking who make this feel like home for me," he said. "My teammates are always there for me no matter what. We are always there for each other. That is what this school is all about."

Matt said he likes music and would like to see Elton John in concert. "He is a favorite of my mom's too," he said.

Matt said he would like to become an electrician and study electronics at Johnson College in the fall of 2022.

He said the COVID-19 pandemic has been tough on student athletes.

"It is especially hard coming back after not having many practices and games last year due to COVID."

"More than half of our team never played football before. We didn't have the opportunity to get much experience last year. There were not many opportunities to practice."

Rainey & Rainey CPA

Matt can't wait for his senior year. He is determined now more than ever. "Our football team is going to be really good. We are going to get a lot of wins."

As for Holy Cross, he adds, "Academically, the teachers are always there for you. They are always there to help you out if needed. I am really looking forward to this senior year."

Matt Tucker is a senior left tackle guard at Holy Cross High School, where he has been on the football team for four years. He is enthusiastic about the prospects for the 2021 Crusader football season.

Wishing all area football teams the best of luck this season!!!

Meet a Guy who really knows his local sports

By Steve Svetovich

Anyone who has met Dunmore's Guy Valvano, knows he has a wide breadth of knowledge about local sports.

"He really is a walking encyclopedia when it comes to local sports," said former Scranton Central and William and Mary University basketball standout Tim Wagner who operates Wagner's Sporting Goods in the Green Ridge section of Scranton. And that he is.

Valvano, who will turn 93 this October, said he kept the scores of every local high school football game from 1950 until June of 2015 when he suffered a brain aneurysm. "That is the only thing that stopped me," he said.

The local sports guru did recover from the aneurysm, which he still has, and continues to follow the local sports scene.

The 1946 Dunmore graduate has been married 68 years to the former Marie Bevelock, a 1949 Dunmore graduate.

He actually covered his wife's Dunmore High School graduation, but did not know her at the time. He met her shortly after.

The couple has one son, Guy, Dunmore, and three daughters, Terry Macciocco, Mary Ann Ragnacci, and Diane Lewis, all of Dunmore.

The couple also has five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Valvano has spent a good portion of his life covering sports as a reporter and editor.

He played two years of basketball as a 5-9 center at Dunmore High School earning second team all-star recognition as a junior and playing in the basketball Dream Game in his senior year.

"Initially, I raised my hand to play forward when I was in junior high school," he said.

"They didn't pick me. So I figured I better raise my hand to try out for center. Then the coaches picked me, so that is how I became a 5-9 center. I figured I better raise my hand again if I wanted to make the team."

Towards the end of high school, Valvano began running baseball and basketball teams in Dunmore and would transport the scores and information to Jimmy Calpin, the sports editor at The Scranton Tribune at the time.

"Calpin noticed I had an interest in sports and said it looked like sports reporting would be something of interest to me. So he offered me a position as copy boy. I told him about my high school basketball schedule which included both games and practices. He told me he would work around my basketball schedule. At the time I turned it down in order to concentrate on basketball.

"That summer I was cutting grass working for a landscaper in Dunmore. I was thinking that I would need a job after the summer, so I called Calpin.

"Initially, he said there was no opening but would keep me in mind. But about a week later he called me and offered me the copy boy job. He told me I would have to report to work the next day. I did and that was it."

Valvano worked at The Scranton Tribune as a copy boy for six months before being named a news correspondent covering Dunmore and East Scranton.

He also covered North and West Scranton as needed. That job lasted two-and-one half years before he was promoted to the position of staff reporter in 1949, right before the start of the high school football season.

In the early 1950's he moved over to the sports staff as a full time sports reporter at The Scranton

Dunmore's Guy Valvano has been writing about sports for decades

Tribune.

He covered sports there for the next four decades until the Tribune's demise in 1990.

During that time, he was named assistant sports editor in 1972 and sports editor of the Sunday Scrantonian in 1983.

Following the end of The Scranton Tribune, Valvano never stopped writing.

He immediately joined the sports staff of The Sunday Sun, a local newspaper created by former reporters, editors and printers of the defunct Tribune.

He stayed with The Sunday Sun for a year until that newspaper's ultimate demise.

Valvano then joined The Dunmorean where he wrote sports stories on and off for the next 25 years.

In the meantime, he wrote 12 sports-related books. All of the books capture the local high school sports scene over the past seven or eight decades or so.

His last book, Pushing 50, was published in 2017. And he may not be done yet.

Valvano also took on a position as sports information director at Lackawanna College from 1993 until 2004.

His years at the Scranton Tribune went from 1946 to 1990. He was 17 when he started and 62 when the newspaper folded while he was still a full time editor.

The local sports icon said football is his favorite sport to cover, although he loves all sports. "I enjoy covering football the best because something is always happening."

Valvano said he loved covering the Dream Game.

"That was one of my real favorites. The Dream Game was my pet among events I loved to cover. You could write a feature story on every single kid selected. That is something I would have loved doing."

The former Sunday Scrantonian sports editor said one of his favorite stories he covered was when

Scranton Central snapped Old Forge basketball's record winning streak. "I remember covering that game well," he said. "I remember the big headline."

He also covered the first basketball game ever played at the old Scranton Catholic Youth Center (CYC).

He remembers gathering with local reporters every year and going to a World Series game.

But he remembers most the one he didn't attend.

"Chic Feldman had a ticket for me October 8, 1956, but I decided not to go. Well, that was the day Don Larsen pitched a perfect game in the World Series for the Yankees. I believe Chic was there to see it, but I wasn't."

Valvano said the late Johnny Vander Meer, the only MLB pitcher to pitch two consecutive no-hitters, was one of his most famous interviews. He interviewed the former Cincinnati Reds hurler at Monticello. "He was a nice guy and gave me a great interview."

He also interviewed Willie Mays and met Johnny Unitas at Pocono Downs.

"I had a great 15-minute conversation with Unitas. He was a tremendous guy. He was busy at an event, but he didn't want me to leave. He wanted to keep talking and telling stories."

He especially remembers Baltimore Orioles Hall of Fame third baseman Brooks Robinson who spoke at a baseball event at Dunmore's Schautz Stadium.

"Brooks was actually in my Dunmore home. He was such a pleasant guy."

"What I remember most is parents coming in with their kids. Brooks politely excused himself and ran right up to the kids to talk and spend time with them. That made a big impression on everyone."

When Valvano suffered a brain aneurysm in mid June of 2015, he was transported to Hershey Medical Center. He spent nine days there.

His daughter told him he better do some reading while he was there. Ironically, he picked up the book, Johnny Vander Meer, Double No-Hitter.

That was six years ago, and today local sports journalism's number one Guy is still going strong.

Dunmore senior Kam Reyes exudes confidence in this year's football team

By Steve Svetovich

Dunmore senior running back-safety Kam Reyes always looks at the bottle as half full.

And it is that kind of confidence that helps make him a leader on the football field for the Dunmore Bucks.

"Coach Kevin McHale expects confidence from his players," said the talented senior. "A district championship and run at a state title is always expected. That is how we do things here at Dunmore."

Son of Tahnee Brown, Kam, 17, is a three year member of the Dunmore football team.

He played wide receiver in the COVID-19 shortened season of 2020 when the Bucks were 3-2. He did carry the football one time for 22 yards.

Kam is a four-year member of the Dunmore baseball team. He also played basketball in his freshman and junior years and will perform as a senior this year.

Kam said his best subject is history. He hopes to study history and education at West Chester University in the fall of 2022.

Despite his great talents, Kam remains humble.

"My mom taught me that," he said. "She believes it is important to always be humble."

Kam talked about what it takes to excel at safety in high school football. "You need to be able to know how to read an offense and what kind of plays they come out with," he said.

He expects to make a smooth transition from wide receiver to running back this season.

"To be a good running back," he said, "you need to be confident in yourself. You don't have to be the biggest back to hit a hole. I do not expect any problems at all."

The hard-working senior said he has learned so much from coach McHale. "He teaches us how to do things in a specific way, the right way. He wants us to always work hard and show confidence."

Kam said he enjoys listening to rap music and would like to see rapper AAP Rotke in concert.

He is looking forward to his senior year at Dunmore.

"I love it here at Dunmore," he said. "It is super fun to be on the field with all your buddies and do what you love to do."

Senior Kam Reyes

The three-sport athlete talked about his future.

"I expect to do big things in Dunmore's name," he said. "I will always say I am from Dunmore. I am very proud of that."

"I want to become a teacher. I want to help kids learn and become better people in this world."

Best of luck to all the teams!
